

Editorial

Ana María Delgado García

Published in: June 2016

Issue 22 of Internet, Law and Politics E-Journal focuses on the single theme of cybercrime and cyber-victimization, dealing with some of the issues related to the transformation of crime as a consequence of the impact of information and communication technologies on social relations.

Specifically, this single-themed edition includes the following articles: "Factores de riesgo asociados al sexting como umbral de diversas formas de victimización Estudio de factores correlacionados con el sexting en una muestra universitaria" (J. R. Agustina and E. L. Gómez Duran); "Factores de riesgo en el cyberbullying: revisión sistemática a partir del modelo del triple riesgo delictivo (TRD)" (A. González); "Actividades cotidianas de los jóvenes en internet y victimización por malware" (N. Guilabert); "Taxonomía de la comunicación violenta y el discurso del odio en internet" (F. Miró); and "Cibercriminalidad social juvenil: la cifra negra" (I. Montiel).

Meanwhile, also published in this issue is the article "Breach of information duties in the B2C e-commerce: adequacy of available remedies", by Z. Bednarz. The article tackles the obligations that both European and national legislation imposes on the framework of electronic commerce between the contracting parties, and the problems resulting from the application of general private law in the event of these duties being breached. Moreover, on the one hand, there is an analysis of various solutions to these problems (such as the duty to advise or extra-judicial mechanisms that restrict the amount of pre-contractual information) and, on the other hand, the right of withdrawal is examined. In addition, an article is included entitled "Mercado único digital y concepto de consumidor" ('Digital single market and the consumer concept'), in which, in view of the recent European proposals designed to regulate the digital single market, Blanca Torrubia proposes distinguishing between the concept of consumer and non-consumer user.

Lastly, this issue brings together all of the latest regulatory developments, prepared by Jordi García Alberó, as well as an overview of all of recent legal rulings, drafted by Patricia Escribano Tortajada. In addition, there is a summary of the latest academic dissemination activities organized by the Department of Law and Political Sciences of the UOC, such as the 7th Conference on Law Teaching and Information and Communication Technologies, the 6th Conference on Criminology and the 4th Conference on Virtual Law.

Dr. Ana María Delgado García
 Director of the Journal
 Professor of Finance and Tax Law
 Director of Law and Political Science Studies
 Director of the Master in Taxation
 Universitat Oberta de Catalunya

<<http://journals.uoc.edu/index.php/idp/article/view/n22-editorial/n22-editorial-en>>
 <<http://dx.doi.org/10.7238/idp.v0i22.3006>>